MAGNIFICENT BANQUET

Given by the Story Lodge at Which Wit, Humor, Wisdom and General Good Will are Expressed—Closed With Patos and Sentimental Singing.

The twenty-third annual communication of the Utah Grand Lodge of Free Masons has convened and adjourned. A most profitable and beneficial session indeed has it been. At last evening's session the appointive officers were named, and all the officers, both elective and appointive, were installed. Rev. LaVake offered the initiatory prayer of the installation and also the closing prayer at the adjournment of the grand lodge. The present officers of the grand lodge are: Right Worshipful Grand Master—Dr. A. S. Chapman. Deputy Right Worshipful Grand and in other places was encouraged. After this discussion, Col. John L. Bartow was called to respond to the toast, "The Press," and the toast-master told a humorous story "one on the Methodist preacher" and called upon Rev. LaVake to answer, choosing his own subject. The minister was equal to the occasion, and set the entire company to laughing so heartily at his wit that for a time each and every man's side was actually sore. The reverend gentleman closed with a beautiful peroration full of christian sympathy and charity, dwelling sweetly upon the immortality of man, and his future communion with God, the Grand Master of the "Auld Lang Series" and the song "Home Sweet Home" sung with vim, spirit and deep feeling the company dispersed.

After installation the grand lodge and visitors in a body numbering sixty five masons marched to the Fleiner cafe where a magnificent banquet was spread. The banquet was given by the Story Lodge No. 4 of Provo in honor of the visiting masons. The feast was something superb, and arranged upon the tables with exceedingly good taste, delicate and finished. The following is the menu.

On the menu were many and varied delicate dishes as well as substantial. It was an elaborate one and the cook was the best. For upwards of an hour the company devoted themselves to a thorough and complete examination discussion, etc., of the solids and liquids before it, and a very considerable quantity of them indeed were demolished, the effect of which was to make the very large stream of general whole-souled good will flow all the more buoyantly. The only marring feature was that some few of the brethren were compelled to depart on the 10:15 train, when of course that, in companies such as this, ever unpleasant word "good bye" had to be passed.

Then the Worshipful Grand Toastmaster, A. D. Gash, called the assembly to order and proposed a toast to the Past Grand Masters, to which Past Grand Master Emery responded. Grand Master Chapman responded to the toast "Masonry of Utah," Grand Secretary Diehl to the toast "Utah Masonry as compared with Masonry elsewhere," Past Grand Master Scott to the toast "Jurisprudence of Masonry," A. C. Emery to the toast "Our Guests," F. E. Bee spoke in behalf of Story Lodge and he was followed by J. M. Bowman in response to the toast "Our Wives, Daughters and Sweethearts." This brought on a general discussion in which very many pretty and encouraging things were said about the fair sex and in which "our mothers" were not forgotten. THE B. Y. academy is not affected adversely by the hard times. The institution is crying loudly for more room. When it becomes necessary to all all classes together it is found impossible now to crowd all the pupils in the large assembly room.

SAMUEL CARSON of Fairfield, this county, it will be remembered, was arrested in August last for adultery whereupon Amelia Carson filed suit for divorce. The grand jury, it seems ignored the case. Since then the poor woman has concluded to withdraw the suit and is here today asking that the divorce suit against her Samuel be dismissed at her own cost, which was done. People grow wiser as the years reel off. This is the case with Mrs. Carson, we suppose.
